

IT'S YOUR HERITAGE

The Glenbow Museum's amazing collections belong to all Albertans.

Glenbow's professional staff put your heritage to work, providing many services so you can explore and enjoy western Canada's rich past:

Camille is getting ready to send 150 Blackfoot artifacts on a major, world-wide, exhibit tour.

Owen copies over 4300 old photos each year for history books and TV shows like "Canada: A People's History".

Frances collects artifacts that tell stories about Albertans' lives, and creates exhibits to share those stories with you.

Rainier welcomes visitors to Glenbow and provides information that enhances their museum experience.

School kids love Rory's behind-the-scenes tours of Glenbow's armour collections.

Ellen re-shelves the archival documents you use, keeping them safe and accessible for future researchers.

Rod's skills and ingenuity, honed by experience with over 400 exhibits, help install new displays.

Steve uses his acting skills to bring to life the historical characters you meet in our galleries.

What can you do about it?

We'd love to do more for you, but years of financial cutbacks have drastically reduced museum positions, services, and programs about your heritage.
